Overview & Current Events

Broadmark Realty Capital Inc. is a real estate investment trust that provides short-term, first deed of trust loans that are secured by real estate. Customers use these loans to acquire, renovate, rehab and develop properties for both residential and commercial uses in the U.S. Broadmark Realty formed in 2010, but had its initial public offering in November of 2019. The trust has originated nearly $3 billion of loans since forming.

On August 9th, 2022, Broadmark Realty reported second quarter results for the period ending June 30th, 2022. For the quarter, revenue decreased 2.3% to $28.52 million, which was $1.48 million lower than expected. Adjusted earnings per share of $0.16 compared unfavorably to adjusted earnings per share of $0.18 in the prior period and was $0.01 below estimates.

Broadmark Realty originated $196.7 million of new loans and amendments for the quarter. Second quarter origination was a 3.7% increase sequentially and at a weighted average loan to value of 62%. Quarterly interest income totaled $22.1 million and fee income was $6.4 million. The total portfolio consisted of $1.6 billion of loans across 20 states and the District of Columbia. As of June 30th, 2022, Broadmark Realty had a total of $91.7 million of loans in contractual default. Provisions for credit losses totaled $2.7 million compared to $58K in the second quarter of 2021.

We anticipate that Broadmark Realty will earn $0.62 per share in 2022, down from $0.81 previously.

Growth on a Per-Share Basis

Broadmark Realty has been a publicly traded entity for a short period of time. That said, the trust has some impressive features. First, Broadmark Realty has zero debt outstanding, which is highly unusual for a REIT. The trust has also seen its active loan portfolio grow from $117 million at the end of 2014 to $1.6 billion at the end of the first quarter of 2022.

Without much of a track record, we believe that a growth rate of 3% for core earnings is appropriate.

Broadmark Realty is also unusual in that it pays a monthly dividend. That said, the dividend was cut twice since the trust went public. The trust did increase its dividend 16.7% to $0.07 for the February 12th, 2021 payment, the first such increase in Broadmark Realty's public history. Shares yield nearly 12% at the current price, but we are not confident that this yield can be sustained if earnings do not grow. Given the volatility in the trust's dividend history, we do not anticipate dividend growth in the medium-term.

Valuation Analysis

Year	2012	2013	2014	2015	2016	2017	2018	2019	2020	2021	Now	2027
Avg. P/E	---	---	---	---	---	---	---	---	13.1	13.3	11.4	10.0
Avg. Yld.	---	---	---	---	---	---	---	---	7.7%	8.9%	11.9%	11.7%

Shares of Broadmark Realty are essentially unchanged since our May 12th, 2022 report. Based on estimates for the year, Broadmark Realty trades with a price-earnings-ratio of 11.4. We have a 2027 target price-to-earnings ratio of 10. We feel that this incorporates the positives for the trust, but also takes into account the short period of time it has been a publicly traded entity. Reverting to our 2027 valuation target would reduce annual returns by 2.6% over the medium-term.

Safety, Quality, Competitive Advantage, & Recession Resiliency

Year	2012	2013	2014	2015	2016	2017	2018	2019	2020	2021	2022	2027
Payout	---	---	---	---	---	---	---	57%	101%	118%	135%	117%

Broadmark Realty's lack of debt is a significant advantage. The trust uses cash on its balance sheet to make acquisitions as opposed to many REITs which use debt to fund purchases. This keeps Broadmark Realty from having to pay interest expense. The trust's weighted average loan-to-value is now above 61% which allows Broadmark Realty to take possession of properties in default with a sizeable amount of equity built in. This should enable the trust to recover a large portion of potential losses. Broadmark Realty is far from recession tested, but the lack of loans originated during COVID-19 restrictions could be a sign of what may happen during a deep recession. The trust's portfolio is split almost evenly as residential loans comprise 55% of the portfolio with commercial making up the remainder. However, Broadmark Realty's properties are highly concentrated in the Pacific Northwest and Mountain West, where 97% of residential loans are located.

Final Thoughts & Recommendation

Shares of Broadmark Realty are expected to return 10.0% annually through 2027, down from our previous estimate of 13.8%. Our projected return stems from a 3% earnings growth rate and an 11.9% dividend yield, offset by a low single-digit headwind from multiple expansion. Broadmark Realty's loan origination improved sequentially, reversing a trend seen in the past few quarters. The trust's portfolio remains healthy, though the expected dividend payout ratio for the year is now well above 100%. We continue to rate shares of Broadmark Realty as a buy, but note that the stock is likely best for those with a higher tolerance for risk, especially when it comes to income.
